

Changes to Work

While working I realized that some of my work falls under simple problems such as a line of code that needs to be fixed or the addition of some pages. Fortunately, I have made an idea to save my work on separate pages incase one page were disconnected without saving or the save is corrupted. Another idea is to connect ideas and look up lines of code in html to correct those mistakes. In order to revise the work, I created I've decided to add onto my own work such as art I've created and videos I've made, those can either range from the abstract art I have made before my college career or the projects I've done during those years.
